

Eggins Brothers

SCIENTIFIC BROTHERS UNITE

Brothers Cameron and Lachlan Eggins were selected from a global field of gifted Science and Mathematics students to attend the International Science School.

The Eggins brothers were two of 140 students, selected from 20 countries, to take part in the International Science School run at the University of Sydney. The selection criteria was rigorous and much emphasis was placed on their grades in Science and Mathematics as well written references from Mr Whelan, Mr Young and Mr Strong.

The students met and learnt from international scientists as well as participated in a range of practical experiments and social activities with other students, including bush walks, city tour and a talent night.

Cameron is an accelerated learner at the College who completed the HSC Mathematics Extension 2 course, and gained first place, whilst still in Year 11.

Congratulations boys - we are very proud of you.
