What's new on the Shelf?

Travel back to the American War of Independence with this great book by Bernard Cornwell.

The Fort - Bernard Cornwell

“Summer 1779.

Seven hundred and fifty British soldiers and three small ships of the Royal Navy. Their orders: to build a fort above a harbour to create a base from which to control the New England seaboard. Forty-one American ships and over nine hundred men. Their orders: to expel the British. The battle that followed was a classic example of how the best-laid plans can be disrupted by personality and politics, and of how warfare can bring out both the best and worst in men. It is a timeless tale of men at war, written by a master storyteller.”

‘The Fort’ written by veteran historical fiction author Bernard Cornwell is an exciting and dramatic story based on a mostly unknown battle of the American War of Independence, the Penobscot Expedition of 1779. Action packed and suspenseful, this is a novel that not only depicts the horrors of war, but also the great bravery and heroism that people can display during terrible circumstances. Author Bernard Cornwell brings this period of history to life with great detail of what life was like in 18th Century America, as well as extensive characterization of both imaginary characters and real life figures such as Sir John Moore and revolutionary icon Paul Revere. Cornwell also objectively portrays both sides of this famous conflict, giving readers a balanced insight of both the good and the bad of the British and the new American Republic. This a fantastic story that will be enjoyed by all fans of history and historical fiction. One side fights for independence, the other for King and Country, make sure you come into the Library and borrow this great new addition to the IRC!

Lots more great historical novels have just arrived in the IRC, travel back in time today!
