'The Dog Runner' - Bren MacDibble

"We're gonna starve if we stay here," Emery said. "If we're gonna go, best go now." And he said it like going was something easy. Like all we have to do is walk away."

"Ella and her brother Emery are alone in a city that's starving to death. If they are going to survive, they must get away, upcountry, to find Emery's mum. But how can two kids travel such big distances across a dry, barren, and dangerous landscape? Well, when you've got five big doggos and a dry-land dogsled, the answer is you go mushing. But when Emery is injured, Ella must find a way to navigate them through rough terrain, and even rougher encounters with desperate people..."

'The Dog Runner' written by Bren MacDibble is fast paced and suspenseful novel that is guaranteed to be a hit with readers from the very first page. Set in a terrifying future Australia in which all grass crops are dead and extreme hunger grips the country, 'The Dog Runner' tells the dramatic journey of two siblings and five loyal dogs as they travel across a ravaged and dangerous landscape in an effort to try and find a better life for themselves. The novel is told through the eyes of one of the siblings Ella. She is young, brave and resourceful, understanding how deadly the world she lives in is. A wonderful trait of this character is her unwavering hope which carries her through and past each obstacle she faces, this giving her the strength not only to survive but to grow.

'The Dog Runner' is a wonderful novel that is bound to be enjoyed by a wide range of readers. It is a very appropriate book for young people to read, especially in regards to the world's uncertain future regarding climate change and global warming. Not only does it provide an example of why mankind needs to protect the planet, but also highlights the importance of family, trust and hope in times of struggle and uncertainty.

Many more great new novels have just arrived in the IRC! Check out the new book stand for all the latest releases.
