GARDEN STATUE

There is a new addition to our Junior School garden - a very humble, clay pot horse. It is named Blücher, after one of Thomas Hassall's horses, who was described as big and iron-grey.

Thomas Hassall was known as the "galloping parson" and took God's message of hope to the people of the South West region. This statue is a reminder of Thomas Hassall and the overall hope that we have in God.

One of our maintenance staff, Paul, has been working hard to make It come together. Thank you for your work! Our Junior School students are very excited to have Blücher join them.
