'First Man: The Life of Neil A. Armstrong' - James R. Hansen

"On 20 July 1969, the world stood still to watch thirty-eight year old American astronaut Neil A. Armstrong become the first person to step on the surface of another heavenly body. Perhaps no words in human history became better known than those few he uttered at that historic moment. This essential biography, now updated with a new chapter written after Armstrong's death, addresses the complex legacy of the First Man, as both an astronaut and an individual."

'First Man' is an incredibly detailed but also highly accessible account of the life of Neil Armstrong, the first man on the moon. Powerful, engaging and thrilling like a fast-paced novel, readers will be instantly transported back to the day when the whole world held its breath in awe as science did the unthinkable. Filled with heart and emotion, this is a wonderful book that is a must read for all astronaut and history buffs.

'Apollo 11: The inside story' - David Whitehouse

"Fifty years ago in July 1969, Apollo 11 became the first manned mission to land on the moon, and Neil Armstrong the first man to step onto its surface. US President Nixon called it the greatest week since creation. In the most authoritative book ever written about Apollo, David Whitehouse reveals the true drama behind the mission, telling the story in the words of those who took part - based around exclusive interviews with the key players."

Much more than just the moon landing, 'Apollo 11: The inside story' tells the fascinating story of the space race between the USA and the Soviet Union. From the first test rockets in the 1950s to the end of the Apollo programme in the late 1970's, this wonderful book is filled with insight and fascinating anecdotes that will bring history to life.
