

BECOME A WORK EXPERIENCE PROVIDER

Are you a business owner eager to give back to the community and support the next generation of professionals?

Here's your chance! We're seeking enthusiastic hosts for our upcoming work experience week in June.

Work experience programs provide a general introduction to the world of work and assist students to develop a more informed opinion about their career aspirations. Thomas Hassall Anglican College students undertake Work Experience in Year 10.

Being involved:

- Enables you to participate in the education, career development, and vocational training of young people in your community.
- Gives you the opportunity to talk to students about your industry and the career and job directions you anticipate.
- Provides you with input into developing an enthusiastic and skilled workforce with the attitudes you want, especially for your industry.
- Enables you to identify young people with potential who might be interested in joining your industry or your organization.
- Raises the profile of your enterprise and develops more links for you with the local community.
- Provides your staff with good opportunities to increase their supervisory skills, such as developing and delivering the company's induction for students and acting as a coach or mentor for students while they are on placement.
- Students are 'voluntary workers,' and host employers are not allowed to make any payment to them under the Federal or State award covering their industry, the NSW Annual Holidays Act, or the Workers.

If you are interested - submit your Expression of Interest today – it's a simple way to show your potential interest. Our Careers Advisor, Mrs Maha Ghabrial, will provide more details and you can decide whether to proceed.
