THESE AREN’T JUST SCRIBBLES

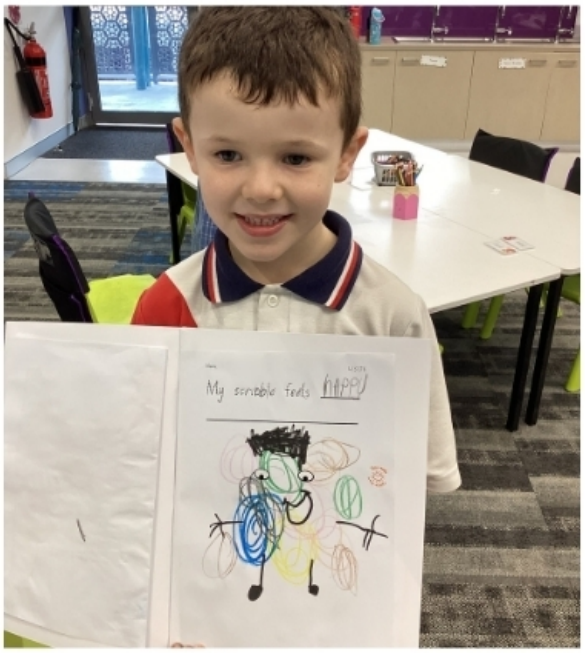

This term, our Kindergarten artists have been exploring how emotions can be expressed through art, with particular focus on the use of colour.

Last week, inspired by the beautiful picture book, ‘I’m Not Just a Scribble’ by Diane Alber, we created our own scribble characters. We considered what feelings we wanted our scribbles to show then used colours and simple facial expressions to bring these emotions to life. Each and every scribble seemed to have its own personality and character.

Our creative Kindergarten children are learning to express themselves through artworks that are as unique and special as they are!
